CORK UNIVERSITY LIBRARY (UNIVERSITY COLLEGE, CORK)

Contains about 250,000 volumes. The Library incorporates the Arbois de Jubainville, Sharman-Crawford, Wilson Memorial, Sexton Anglo-Indian, Butler, and other collections. The sections for Science, Celtic Languages and Irish History are particularly valuable. An effort is being made to build up a good collection of Irish Manuscripts, and information from persons possessing such will be gladly welcomed by the Librarian. A special collection of Cork-Printed Books is also in process of formation. Persons engaged in any research work, even though not members of the College, who may desire to use the College Library for consultation, may obtain permission by making application on a form to be obtained from the Librarian, T. A. Conroy, M.A.
